Health Care Reform: What's Next?

Presented by Jonathan M. Topodas, Vice President & Counsel of Federal Government Relations, Law & Regulatory Affairs, Aetna Inc.

Thursday, December 10, 2009

1:00 p.m. Eastern | 12:00 p.m. Central | 11:00 a.m. Mountain | 10:00 a.m. Pacific

As we bring 2009 to a close, the subject of health care reform, while dominating national headlines all year, appears to be just warming up. With legislation passed in the House and introduced in the Senate, what is expected to occur next and when? Please join us for a one-hour webcast to explore the current state of federal legislation and what the future might hold.

About The Presenter

Jonathan currently serves as Vice President and Counsel in Aetna's Federal Government Relations area responsible for Federal health legislative and regulatory matters. In this capacity, Jonathan focuses on both the development of company policy positions and the advocacy of these positions in Washington. Key issues include: Medicare; medical malpractice litigation reform; patient safety; the uninsured; protecting ERISA; defeating health mandates; quality of care; and related health issues.

Jonathan has been with Aetna since his graduation from Southern Methodist University School of Law in 1974. During this period, he has provided legal counsel to a number of company clients as a member of the Law Department and more recently as a member of Federal Government Relations section of the Law Department. In 1979, Jonathan was selected to participate in a Congressional Fellowship program sponsored by The Brookings Institution and pursuant to this program, he spent a year in Washington, DC as Counsel to the U.S. Senate Judiciary Committee.

Jonathan works with numerous employer groups in Washington, including the U.S. Chamber, the National Association of Manufacturers, the National Business Group on Health and the American Benefits Council where he is a Member of the Board of Directors.
