Healthcare Coverage for 275,000 Ohioans at Risk.

Ohio is about miss out on a historic opportunity to help working Ohioans and their families. Because some legislators are choosing politics over people, the Ohio House does not have enough votes to pass a budget that includes Medicaid expansion. This means that health care for 275,000 working Ohioans is at risk, including veterans and those with mental health or other chronic conditions.

There is still time for the Ohio House to choose people over politics and extend healthcare coverage to low-wage Ohioans. Join Ohioans from across the state at a rally to support health care coverage in the state budget this Thursday at the Ohio Statehouse.
